

UPPER STREAMS OF FORONAI RIVER, THE MOI TRIBE-NORTHER COAST PAPUA

In Brief

New Guinea remains the undisputable home of the world's last men. Here, in the pockets of prehistory hidden from time and by nature, there still survives something of original man, who is required to expend all his efforts, every day, to resolve the problems of food and survival.

Our next expedition deep to the wild jungle of Western part of New Guinea, where to the south from the Mamberamo River survive two hundred people of nomadic Papuan tribe of Bauzi, completely isolated from the outer world and remaining in the Stone Age, hunting cassowary and using a whistled language.."

Note:

If we don't find any ideal man (for you be your husband in Korowai, we will go to Moi tribe & Bauzi.
